Friday 16 June 8.30pm

Mick Hanly*

A solo acoustic set from the acclaimed songwriter, known internationally for his song 'Past the Point of Rescue'. Mick Hanly is a veteran of the Irish music scene, having fronted Moving Hearts following the departure of Christy Moore and has recorded with Noel Hill, Donal Lunny, Declan Sinnott and many more. These days Mick is a happy man. He has cause to be, with a hit song under his belt, a new album on release, 'Warts and All', and songs such as 'My Love Is In America', aired daily on Irish radio. Make a date in your diary for an evening of musical brilliance with a modern legend.

"His songs are real, they mean something. He is one of the best songwriters around at the moment". Garth Brooks

Tony Linnane* (fiddle)

Noel Hill (concertina),

Mick Connelley

(bouzouki & fiddle),

Brian McGrath (piano)

In the world of traditional Irish music, Tony Linnane is renowned as a fiddle player of outstanding ability. His playing has superb fluency and flow in its style and is characterised by impeccable technique and a wealth of feeling and sensitivity. He is one of the finest exponents of the instrument in Ireland today, and has featured in many classic albums. Among these are 'The Iron Behind the Velvet', with Christy Moore and 'The Woman I Loved So Well', with Planxty. His debut album with Noel Hill, recorded in 1979, is generally regarded as one of the finest traditional Irish music records to date.

Saturday 24 June 8.00pm

Albert Niland & guests *

Having sold out his January 2006 gig in glór, the critically acclaimed singer returns with songs from his new EP. His haunting acoustic version of 'Wuthering Heights' was one of the most requested live songs ever on Today FM and garnered him wide-reaching recognition from fans and fellow musicians. Albert was invited to guest at the Planxty reunion in Vicar St. and supported Christy Moore in Galway. Blending various styles of intricate guitar playing, from flamenco to rock, and powerful vocals, his live shows are not to be missed. Albert will be joined by Danny Byrt (percussion) and Joe Csibi (double bass). Support by Lousie McMahon.

Ronnie Drew & Eleanor Shanley *

with Mike Hanrahan & Stephen O'Flaherty

Ronnie Drew is an Irish legend. His voice and face make him one of the most recognisable Irishmen at home and abroad. He will always be connected in the public mind with The Dubliners of whom he was a founding member in 1962 and with whom he sang and played guitar for over thirty years.

Eleanor Shanley, who came to national prominence as vocalist with De Dannan with whom she recorded two albums, is proud to be the only woman ever to sing on a Dubliners album when she contributed to 'Thirty Years a Greying'. Together, they are a blend of vocal talents that is second to none. Ronnie and Eleanor come to glór on foot of their recently released collaborative album, 'El Amor De Mi Vida'.

Early booking advised.

Kiernan McMullan & Vertigo Smyth

Two of Ireland's budding songwriters, coming from two very different backgrounds, come together for the coinciding launch of both their albums. Having both played to crowds nationally and internationally for years, these two debuts are well awaited. Praised equally on Michelle Harding's Acoustic Freeway on Clare FM and Limericks gigtown promotions this is a gig not to miss!

Support on the evening will be provided by Ross Whyatt.

Mystic Chorale joined by The Lismorahaun Singers *

Whether singing gospel music or a rousing Israeli dance, the American chorus, The Mystic Chorale, will uplift and renew your spirits. Nick Page, Director, composes or arranges most of the music along with their equally amazing accompanist, Jonathan Singleton. Their music is drawn from folk traditions of the world, and as with all folk music, they love to get their audiences singing and dancing along.

The Lismorahaun Singers are drawn from 'real people' in all walks of life. This non-audition choir from North Clare is known for an expressive and emotionally rich style of open-singing that brings a collective excitement and enthusiasm to their sound seldom experienced in choral performances.

An afternoon voice workshop lead by Nick Page in conjunction with Archie Simpson will run from 3-5pm. Learn how to open and expand your voice even if you have no prior experience.

school to stage

glór is delighted to invite a number of highly regarded teachers of traditional Irish music and their students to perform on the glór stage this year. This pilot scheme, supported by the Arts Council's Deis Scheme, aims to recognise the role of teachers of the tradition, encourage the development of performance skills amongst young performers and develop new audiences for traditional music.

Friday 9 June 8pm

Brid O'Donohue

Bríd O'Donohue, an accomplished teacher and player of tin whistle and flute from Miltown Malbay presents an evening of traditional Irish music with the pupils of her winter music school which has been running for nearly 20 years. Bríd is delighted to be joined by the legendary East Clare fiddle player, Paddy Canny, who will be joined by his grandchildren, Gerard and Eimear Coughlan, along with West Clare musicians Kitty Hayes and Peter Laban who recently released their album, 'They'll Be Good Yet'.

The main emphasis of Bríd's school has always been passing on the love of traditional music as is evident when she is joined on stage tonight by her 5 children, Sean, Eibhlís, Deirdre, Liam and Sinead O'Brien, playing a variety of traditional instruments.

Josephine Marsh & Siobhán Peoples

Josephine Marsh has played music all around the world from Capitol Hill to Sydney. She has contributed to film soundtracks, recorded her own CDs as well as numerous television and radio appearances over the years. Josephine also composes music and some of her tunes are now part of the general traditional music repertoire. She has been teaching music for 18 years and is now based in Mullagh where she teaches children from 6 to 18 years of age to play accordion, fiddle, concertina, whistle and banjo.

Siobhán Peoples comes from a great tradition of Donegal fiddle players. She grew up in Toonagh, Co. Clare and was taught fiddle by Frank Custy. Siobhán has been known for her virtuoso playing since a young age and has traveled extensively abroad, playing to critical acclaim. Siobhán has been teaching fiddle in Ennis for 17 years. She teaches children and adults.

Siobhán, Josephine and their students will be joined on stage by Limerick guitarist and singer, Tommy Carew.

Ballet Ireland Summer School 2006 – Ugly Duck

During the week's workshops, exploration into all the component parts of ballet is made, music, mime, painting and drama, as well as that of dance. Ways of using the body to express narrative and mood are investigated and music is exploited as a tool to enhance this. Various dance steps, styles and rhythms lend themselves to complex chains of movement which, together with aspects of mime and dramatic expression, contribute ultimately to the culmination of the week's work, a performance held onstage in a professional theatre environment and open to the public.

The subject of the Ballet Ireland Summer School 2006 is a take on a Hans Christian Anderson favourite, 'Ugly Duck!' theme.

Participation in the programme is open to all performers, boys and girls alike, aged six and above.

Early booking strongly advised. Capacity limited.

Sunday 11 June 8.30pm

Big Wednesday

Directed by

John Milius, USA, 1977, 102 mins

The tale of a group of friends drifting through the sixties and seventies, getting into scrapes, having parties, trying to avoid Vietnam and doing all that stuff sixties movies live for.

The episodic format, a series of brief snapshots taken from various moments over a spread of ten years or so helps capture the rambling nature of these people's lives and gives an insight on how much things change and yet stay the same between a gang of old friends as the times move on and the world turns.

Come Surf With Me

Directed by Rod Sumpter , UK, 1967, 85 mins, CLUB

Veteran surfer Rod Sumpter's 1960s film Come Surf With Me follows surfing greats as they charter virgin territory on the North Cornish Coast, Ireland and France and some of the best international surfing spots in the world. It also shows Rod in action in the freezing and snow-covered Bay of Fundy in Canada, and in action when he surfed 4 to 6 miles on the Severn Bore in Gloucestershire, which was entered in the Guinness Book of Records in 1968.

Come Surf With Me has a huge nostalgic factor for anyone who lived through the time as well as plenty of techniques for the modern generation of enthusiasts who are being shown the roots of their beloved sport and loving every minute of it. It is an important record which documents the history of surfing in Cornwall, Ireland and France and shows how today's standard moves and equipment were pioneered, tried, developed and practised to perfection. It is a film that shouldn't be missed.

Sunday 2 July 8.30pm

Dogtown and Z-boys

Directed by Stacy Peralta,

USA, 2001, 89 mins, CLUB

Stacy Peralta's (Riding Giants) documentary on his formative time among a clique of straggly teen drop-outs who turned skateboarding on its head makes a compelling case that, where riding four-wheeled planks of wood is concerned, the guys were the birth of cool.

Back in the '70s, Dogtown was a rundown ocean-front district where hardened surfers honed their skills amid the detritus of the Pacific Ocean Park pier and skated when they couldn't surf, emulating their wave-wending moves on any available tarmac slope. When a drought emptied the swimming pools, the gang jumped on the exposed testing grounds, gyrating higher up pool walls until they learned to flip over the lip and pivot in mid-air.

Narrated with suitable casualness by Sean Penn, it's an enthralling story laden with archive footage and insider testimony, displayed with a fast-cutting, full-on swagger the material quickly justifies. - Nick Bradshaw, Time Out.

Winner - Audience Award (Documentary) / Sundance Film Festival

The movie has an infectious exuberance that will engage anyone with a passing interest in the skate/surf culture. - Glenn Whipp, Los Angeles Daily News
